II. PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Candidates for admission to the Junior Preparatory must be prepared for examination on Orthography, English Grammar, U. S. History, and Arithmetic.

For admission to Senior Preparatory, the applicant must be prepared for examination on all subjects pursued in Junior year, Preparatory Course. In Latin he must have read all of Book I. in Cæsar's Gallic War, and must be familiar with the rules of Syntax. The Roman method of pronunciation is used.

I. JUNIOR.

FIRST TERM—Latin Lessons (5); Algebra, begun (5); Review of Arithmetic (3); Science of Government, United States History.

SECOND TERM—Latin Lessons (5); Algebra (5); English Grammar, (Syntax and Analysis) (5); United States History.

THIRD TERM—Cæsar (5); Algebra (5); Advanced English Grammar (4); Physical Geography (1); English Grammar (5); United States History.

THROUGHOUT THE YEAR—Bible Lessons; General Exercises; Penmanship.

II. SENIOR.

FIRST TERM—Cæsar (5); Algebra (5); Greek Grammar and Lessons (5), or German (5).

SECOND TERM—Virgil (5); Algebra, completed (5); Geometry, begun (5); Greek Grammar and Lessons (5), or German (5).

THIRD TERM—Virgil (5); Geometry, to Book V. (5); Greek Grammar and Lessons (5), or German (5); Botany, Lessons and Plant Analysis with Herbarium (3).

THROUGHOUT THE YEAR—Bible Lessons; General Exercises; Selections from American Literature; Penmanship or Book-keeping.

The number in parenthesis affixed to each study indicates the number of recitations per week.

III. ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.

Examinations for First Year, English Course, the same as the Junior Preparatory.

FIRST YEAR.

FIRST TERM—Algebra, begun; Science of Government; United States History.

SECOND TERM—Algebra; English Grammar, (Syntax and Analysis); Review of Arithmetic, begun; United States History.

THIRD TERM—Algebra; English Grammar, (Analysis and Diagrams); Review of Arithmetic, continued; Practical Arithmetic; Advanced English; United States History.

THROUGHOUT THE YEAR—Bible; Penmanship or Bookkeeping; General Exercises.

SECOND YEAR.

FIRST TERM—Algebra; Composition and Rhetoric; Physics.

SECOND TERM—Algebra, completed; Geometry; Study of Words; Physiology.

THIRD TERM—Geometry; Geology; Botany.

THROUGHOUT THE YEAR—Bible; Penmanship or Bookkeeping; General Exercises, and Selections from American Literature.

THIRD YEAR.

FIRST TERM—Geometry; Chemistry; Ethics; Biology; History.

SECOND TERM—Trigonometry; Ethics; Natural Theology; History.

THIRD TERM—Mensuration, Surveying and Navigation; Astronomy; Ethics; Evidences of Christianity; History.

THROUGHOUT THE YEAR—Bible; Elocution; Selections from English Literature.

REMARKS.

1. No student should enter the Freshman Class of either course until fully up with it.

2. All students should take one of the above courses and pursue it regularly: but those not wishing to do so are permitted to select such subjects as they are competent to study, and can recite with regular classes provided that they pass the examination which would entitle them to pursue the subject if in a regular course.

3. In the Scientific Course students can take Music instead of German, tuition for music being extra.

4. All the students are required to attend the Worship of God in the chapel daily, and to recite a Bible lesson weekly. Students in the Classical and Scientific Courses will study select portions of the Scriptures, in addition to the usual text books on Moral Philosophy and the Evidences of Natural and Revealed Religion. The President will give frequent lectures on manners, morals and religious duties, intended to train the students to the life of Christian ladies and gentlemen. All who do not reside with their parents are required to attend public worship and Bible class in some church on the Sabbath. Students' prayermeetings are maintained and well attended. The Students' Christian Union, an association of students and professors, for the promotion of their spiritual welfare and the cause of Christ in the College, holds regular monthly meetings on the first Sabbath of each month. The Faculty regard it as an important part of their work to labor for the moral and spiritual welfare of the student.

5. The degree of A. B. is conferred upon students who complete and pass satisfactory examinations in the Classical Course.

The degree of B. S. is conferred on students who complete and pass satisfactory examinations in the Scientific Course.

A certificate of attainments will be given to those who complete and pass satisfactory examinations in the English Course.

Preparatory Department.

Experience has taught educators the importance of careful preparation, under competent instructors, for the higher work in the College Classes. The special object of this department is to prepare students thoroughly for entering the Freshman Class. In this department all of the studies pursued have direct reference to the more extended courses which follow. No time is thus wasted in studies which do not lay a sufficiently broad and firm foundation for the higher work. Thorough preparation insures successful College work.

Parents can send their sons and daughters here with perfect confidence that they will be cared for, and placed in course of training IN THE ESSENTIAL BRANCHES, which will prepare them for the Freshman Class.

ADVANTAGES.

All advantages in the way of Libraries, Literary Societies, Museum, Lectures, and other features of the College, are open to the students in this Department.

CONTROL.

The Preparatory Department is under the superintendence of the President and Faculty, and the special supervision of the Principal. The instruction is given by the regular Professors in the College, and not by tutors.

ATTENDANCE.

To secure the full advantage of the above course, the student should enter at the beginning of the Collegiate year, and remain until its close. Students should be present at every recitation. Tardiness is a ground for censure; and absence without permission or reasonable excuse is a ground for dismissal.

REPORTS.

A report of the work and attendance of each pupil will be made, at the end of each term, to his parents or guardian. Special reports will be made oftener at the request of the parent or guardian.

HONORARY COURSE.

An Honorary Course of Reading in American History and Literature has been adopted for students in the Preparatory Department. Any student who has an average monthly grade of 8.5 in each study, may pursue this course.

English Department.

There are many young men and women who have not the time, means, or inclination at present, to pursue a thorough course of training, who nevertheless desire a good English education coupled with the advantages of college associations. For this worthy class we have provided the best facilities possible in our

ENGLISH COURSE.

The course of study is full, and calculated to create a desire, in the student pursuing it, for future study and higher training.

Its design is to furnish a practical education, and to prepare young men and young women for business. It furnishes the teachers in our common schools a favorable opportunity to prepare themselves for higher and better positions. The Third Term affords teachers who have taught during the Fall and Winter terms, and others wishing to prepare for regular College Classes, excellent facilities for REVIEWING the Common School Branches. All the time the classes are pursuing studies in Wentworth's Algebra (from Radicals), Plane Geometry (from II. Book), Botany, Advanced English, English Grammar, History, Topical Review of Arithmetic, Practical Arithmetic, Physical Geography and Geology.

ADVANTAGES.

All the resources and facilities contributing to other courses are available in this course. The instruction is superintended and given by persons who have made teaching a profession, and who on this account are able by example as well as precept to assist and direct the pupil.

Text Books and Books of Reference.

Ethics—McIlvaine's Evidences of Christianity, Wayland's Moral Science.

Natural Science—Shepard's Chemistry, Martin's Human Body, Dana's Geology, Snell's Olmstead's Philosophy and Astronomy, Burritt's Astronomy, Hutchison's Physiology, Cooley's Physics, Gray's School and Field Book of Botany, and Bessy's Physiological Botany.

Latin and Hebrew Languages—Allen & Greenough's Latin Grammar, revised edition, Cicero, Chase & Stewart's Horace, Tyler's Tacitus, Harper's Hebrew Grammar and Manual.

Greek Language—Greek Grammar, Anabasis, Anthon's Memorabilia, D'Ooge's Demosthenes, Whiton's Lysias, Tyler's Apology and Crito, Woolsey's Alcestis.

Mathematics—Loomis's Mathematical Course, revised edition.

German—Comfort's German Course, Worman's First German Book, Boisen's Book of German prose, and other selections from German Literature.

Philosophy—Bowen's Hamilton, Jevon's Logic, Whately's Rhetoric, Francis Walker's Political Economy, Andrews's Constitution of the United States, revised edition.

English Language—Shaw's New English Literature, Hart's Composition and Rhetoric, Trench's Study of Words, Montgomery's English History.

Elocution—Cumnock's Choice Readings, Murdock's Vocal Culture.

PREPARATORY.

Allen & Greenough's Latin Grammar, revised edition, Harper & Burgess's Latin Method, Kelsey's Caesar, Greenough's Virgil, Reed & Kellogg's English Grammar and Composition, Wentworth's Shorter Course Algebra, Macey's Science of Government, Loomis's Algebra, Loomis's Geometry, Greek Grammar, Harper & Waters's Greek Method, Comfort's German, Wentworth's Arithmetical Problems.

ENGLISH COURSE.

In the classes of this course the text books are the same as those in the Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.

SPECIAL COURSE.

I. The Special Course includes nine departments, in one or more of which a student may graduate with Honors, first or second, according to the attainments made. These Honors are in no sense competitive. As many as complete the course receive them.

The departments of the Special Course are as follows:

II. 1, Christian Ethics; 2, Philosophy; 3, Natural Science; 4, English Literature; 5, Mathematics; 6, Greek Language and Literature; 7, Latin Language and Literature; 8, German; 9, History.

III. Students will not be admitted as candidates for Honors in Greek, Latin, Mathematics, or German, later than the second term of the Sophomore year; in Natural Science, English Literature, or History, later than the first term of the Junior year; in Philosophy or Christian Ethics, later than the first term of the Senior year.

IV. No student will be admitted to examination for Honors unless the average of his recitations and examinations in each subject the term preceding shall be 8.5.

V. In general, not exceeding one-half as much matter in addition to the amount required in the ordinary course, in any of the above departments, must be mastered in order to a second Honor; and an amount equal to that required in the ordinary course in order to a first Honor.

VI. Honor examinations will be held the first week of each vacation, Senior included, at which candidates for the degree of A. B. or B. S. may present themselves, and those passing in any subject of any Department shall be credited with the same. In case of every candidate, the result of all the examinations will determine the Honor attained.

VII. Alumni may in like manner present themselves for examination in any of the departments named above, at any honor examination, and those passing in any subject will be credited with the same.

VIII. The result of all these examinations will be entered on the College Register.

IV. MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

Owing to the widely spreading interest in Music in general and the frequent demands for it in connection with the College course, the Senate and Faculty have established a Musical Department in Monmouth College.

The success that has been attained in this department since its opening unmistakably proves the wisdom of the Board in establishing it.

Prof. E C. Zartman has been chosen as Professor and Director of the Department. Prof. Zartman was for some years a pupil of the late Prof. Karl Merz, Musical Director, of Wooster, Ohio, and under the direction of this eminent instructor and author attained a high degree of culture in his chosen field of labor. Prof. Zartman will devote his whole personal attention to the giving of lessons to pupils and looking after the interests of this Department.

It is not the intention to teach Music merely as an ornamental branch, but to make it a part of a complete education, a higher culture. Hence, with this idea in view, Music has been placed on an equality with other studies in the curriculum.

The following branches will be taught: Piano-playing, Organ-playing, Cultivation of the Voice, Chorus Singing, Harmony, and Musical Composition.

Those desiring private instruction will be accommodated; however, the class system, being long recognized as highly beneficial in its results in other schools of music, has been introduced here.

By this means the cost of musical instruction is brought within reach of persons of limited means, and it is also found that the corrections made for the benefit of one pupil prove likewise beneficial to the other in the class. To play and sing before others is quite a trial for many pupils, and in this the class is found valuable in overcoming this diffidence. It also excites a friendly rivalry that is both stimulating and healthful. Two pupils are considered a class. A musical education is two-fold—an accurate technic must be acquired and a correct taste developed; hence close attention will be paid to technical studies while the best works of the Masters will be introduced as the progress of the pupil may require.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The great diversity of talent, the ultimate object in the study of music, and the varied stages of acquirement of pupils, render it almost impossible to lay down a course adapted to all pupils. Hence the course pursued, while it must be adapted to the pupils' wants, will be left largely to the direction of the Director of the Department.

PIANO COURSE.

A thorough course in piano music, embracing the most suitable selections from the great composers, has been carefully selected and will be used.

VOCAL COURSE.

Close attention will be given to the management of the breath, to tone placing, to sustained tones, arpeggios and scales. Good Vocal Methods will be used.

VOCAL MUSIC.

To sing reasonably well ought to be the ambition of every young person, since it is not only an agreeable diversion in the home circle, but in public it often proves a most desirable accomplishment. A minister, too, should have at least an intelligent oversight of the musical interests of the congregation, hence an opportunity is given to those expecting to study Theology for a careful cultivation of voice and ear.

CHORUS SINGING.

It is found that chorus singing cannot be carried on with any degree of success in Colleges and Seminaries admitting but one sex, but in a co-educational institution like our own the facilities for chorus singing have already proven themselves ample. Persons entering the Chorus Class are charged a nominal fee which barely defrays incidental and other expenses connected with the class.

HARMONY AND MUSICAL COMPOSITION.

This knowledge is equally essential to all, gifted or not, alike, as it is only through this knowledge that a correct comprehension of musical form is to be obtained. In this as in other branches instruction will be imparted either in private or in class lessons as may seem best.

CONCERTS AND RECITALS.

Recitals, to which the public is cordially invited, are given from time to time by the pupils of the Department. It has been the custom in the past to give a concert as a part of the commencement exercises at the close of each college year. This custom will be continued.

WHEN TO ENTER.

While it is desirable that pupils should enter at the beginning of the term, they will be admitted however at all times with the understanding that they remain through the session upon which they enter, unless other arrangements are made.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

All persons wishing to enter the Department must first see the President of the College, with whom they will make all their arrangements for entrance.

No reduction will be made for lessons lost either by Holidays or through carelessness or other faults of the pupil.

The privileges of the Musical Department are not extended on the same grounds to holders of scholarships and half rate tuitions, as are the privileges of the other departments of the college.

Regular lesson hours will be assigned to all, and the strictest punctuality is required.

No student connected with the institution will be credited with lessons taken elsewhere except by special permission of the Faculty.

RATES OF TUITION.

Tuition per session payable in advance, two lessons per week:

FALL SESSION—SIXTEEN WEEKS.

In Classes—Piano and Voice Culture, each.....	$18 00
Private Lessons—Piano and Voice Culture, each.....	27 00
Harmony	6 00

WINTER SESSION—TWELVE WEEKS.

In Classes—Piano and Voice Culture, each.....	$14 00
Private Lessons—Piano and Voice Culture, each.....	23 00
Harmony	5 00

SPRING SESSION—TEN WEEKS.

In Classes—Piano and Voice Culture, each.....	$12 00
Private Lessons—Piano and Voice Culture, each.....	18 00
Harmony	5 00

All class lessons are three-fourths of an hour each; private lessons also three-fourths of an hour each. Good pianos and organs can be rented at the expense of the pupils or they may bring their own instruments if they prefer.

SPECIAL REGULATIONS.

I. The classification of all students applying for admission to Monmouth College will be by examination, not by certificate, except as provided for in the following:

(1). Students may be admitted to classes above Freshman on the certificate of honorable dismissal from colleges of like standing with this.

(2). Students coming from well established Academies and High Schools, whose course corresponds with that of this school are requested to bring official certificates, not Diplomas, from such schools. These certificates shall state what subjects have been studied, with the time devoted to each and the author of the text book used, and the standing in recitation and examination. Blank forms of such certificates will be furnished on application to the President of this college. These certificates will be used by each Professor holding entrance examinations, in determining the extent of examinations needful in his department. Applicants desiring to avail themselves of the benefit of these certificates must have them with them when they present themselves for admission.

(3). Pupils admitted to any class must take all subjects in the course with that class, unless excused by examination conducted by the Professor to whose department the subjects belong.

(4). These regulations shall be in effect on the publication of this Catalogue.

(5). No student of known immoral character, and none whose influence is likely to be injurious to good order, will be admitted. Applicants for admission, unknown to any member of the Faculty, should bring certificates of good moral character.

II. The Statutes of the College, Chapter II, Section 3, provide that "No student shall be permitted to enter at a later period of the course than the commencement of the first session of the Senior year." The spirit of this law, in the judgment of the Faculty, requires at least one full year's attendance of a student on the exercises of the College in order to graduation. Under no circumstances will this rule, as thus interpreted, be relaxed while the above statute remains unrepealed.

III. The Senate has adopted the following as an additional chapter to the College Statute:

"SECTION 1. All persons matriculating shall be regarded as students, and on payment of the required fees shall be entitled to all the privileges of the College.

SEC. 2. Connection with the College is terminated by graduation or dismissal, honorable or otherwise.

SEC. 3. The privileges of the student shall be suspended in all cases of failure to pay the required fee and attend on instruction: PROVIDED, however, that the following privileges, namely, that of examination with his class, active membership in the societies, representing societies and classes on public performances, and the use of the Library and Reading Room, may be granted to students temporarily absent, for a period not exceeding one year, on written permission from the Faculty, and the payment of two dollars per term.

SEC. 4. All persons enjoying any of the above privileges shall be subject to College discipline, the same as if in actual attendance."

IV. There are during the year public exhibitions of the College Classes as follows: Of the Junior Class in May and the Sophomore in November. These exhibitions are held on such evenings and in such places as the Faculty may appoint.

V. At the meeting of the Senate in June 1874, the following was added to the Statutes of the College as Section 4 of Chapter xii.:

"It shall be unlawful for any student of the College hereafter to become a member of any secret College Fraternity, or to connect with any chapter of any such fraternity, and also for any active member of any such fraternity to be admitted as a student of this College."

VI. In regard to marking, grading, and examinations, the following principles have been adopted:

1. Each recitation is marked on a scale of 10; ordinary excellence being indicated by 9, extraordinary by 10; these marks are averaged in each subject monthly, and entered on the Monthly Record. No student whose average recitation grade falls below 7 is entitled to examination with his class. The actual attendance is marked on the same scale, and entered on the same record. To be marked 10 in attendance on the Monthly Record, the student must have been actually present at every roll-call of his class during the month.

2. Each class is examined on each subject as soon as completed. The examination of each student is marked on the same scale and entered on the Annual Record. To pass, the student must answer correctly at least 70 per cent of all questions asked him. No student is credited with any subject until he has been examined and passed in it. The student's Final Grade in any subject is determined by adding his examination grade to twice his average recitation grade and dividing this sum by three.

3. The Grand Average of the marks received in all the subjects in which the student has been examined and passed with his class during the year, and of the marks for attendance during the same time, determines the student's rank in his class. This is entered on the Annual Record.

4. No student is promoted to the Freshman class whose deficiencies exceed what may be made up in one year by a single recitation daily, or to a higher class whose deficiencies exceed five months; this change to take effect in September, 1891.

5. The Salutatory and Valedictory, on Commencement Day, are delivered, the former by the Senior Scientific, the latter by the Senior Classical who ranks highest.

6. In order to secure thoroughness in the elementary subjects, each College class will be required to pass a special examination, after a review conducted by a Professor, in Geography, Arithmetic, and English Grammar. To pass in these subjects the student must make an examination grade of 8. The terms during which these reviews and examinations take place are indicated in the "Course of Study."

7. If any student shall be admitted after the beginning of a session and before the middle of it, he shall pay the fee accruing on the whole session. If admitted at or after the middle of the session he shall pay half thereof.

VII. Reports are sent to parents or guardians at the close of each term. The President should be notified of every case where report fails to come within ten days after the close of the term.

VIII. The statutes expressly forbid the students to use intoxicating drinks as a beverage, or play cards, to frequent drinking, gambling, or billiard saloons, or improper places of resort of any kind. The Faculty judge places of amusement, commonly called "balls" and "dances" to be improper places of resort for students.

IX. Students are requested to notify the President before changing their place of boarding.

X. Ladies and Gentlemen are admitted to all privileges of the College on the same footing.

XI. No student is allowed to change his subjects of study without permission of the Faculty.

HONOR RULES.

I. Competitors for prizes and honors must take all the subjects of their class for the time over which the competition extends.

II. Graduating honors shall be decided by the grades of the Junior and Senior years combined.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.

The entire building is heated with steam and lighted with gas.

LIBRARY.

It is impossible to over-estimate the benefit to those pursuing a college course of free access to well-selected books. Few institutions afford library advantages superior to those of Monmouth College. Through the liberality of W. P. Pressly, Esq., the Warren County Library was established in 1870; and by an arrangement made by the College, this Library is open to all the students, free of charge in the room. This is one of the best established, conducted and selected libraries in the West. Its endowment is about $17,000. It contains at present between thirteen and fourteen thousand volumes, and some six hundred books of the best current literature are added yearly. Prof. Rogers, who has been the Secretary of the Library Association since its foundation, devotes much time to the careful selection of books to be purchased, and renders invaluable assistance to the students in finding works helpful in any investigation they may be pursuing. Connected with the Library is a large and pleasant Reading Room, supplied with all the leading papers, magazines and reviews, both English and American. In the number and expense of periodicals furnished, it is the first in the state outside of Chicago.

APPARATUS.

An extensive Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus affords the means for a satisfactory illustration of the most important principles in the various departments of Astronomy, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry. A number of new pieces of apparatus have been added during the last year to illustrate the principles of Electricity, including a Storage Battery, an Electric Motor and incandescent electric lamps.

CABINET.

The College Cabinet has a large assortment of Coins, Geological Specimens, and other articles of interest, collected by Dr. Barnett in Palestine and Egypt: a Geological collection donated by the State; a valuable assortment of minerals presented by Rev.

T. D. Davis, of Camp Point; a large variety of corals; a valuable collection of Chinese curiosities, the gift of Rev. J. C. Nevin of California; a cast of the famous Tanis stone presented by Dr. Lansing of Cairo, Egypt; and a fine collection of plaster casts of Trilobites donated to the College by Rev. J. C. Elliott of Swanswick, Ill. A fine collection of fossils from the Bad Lands, Dakota, has also been added to the museum through the liberality of Rev. A. Gordon, '80, and additions are continually being received; the skeleton of a mound builder has recently been acquired.

LABORATORIES.

A well-filled Chemical Laboratory is in successful use and a Physical Laboratory has been added, both of which furnish excellent opportunity for class work.

COLLEGE PAPERS.

The Courier, founded in 1876, and The Collegian, in 1881, were, in 1889, consolidated under the name of The Annex. This is edited by the students and published semi-monthly.

ELOCUTION.

This elegant art on a scientific basis is taught throughout the year, as a part of the curriculum, by a thoroughly competent teacher. Very few institutions East or West can furnish better facilities for cultivating the power of expressing thought. If it be true that we think in language, it is of the utmost importance we speak the language in which we think. Otherwise our ideas, though clearly thought out, are not expressed. Through a vicious intonation, accent or inflection, they have miscarried and we are misunderstood.

The regular course of instruction, including personal training for all public exhibitions required of the students by the College, is furnished without extra expense to the student. In addition to this, should any student desire special instruction, it can be had at a very moderate cost.

GYMNASIUM.

There is no Gymnasium under direction of the College, but the one in connection with the Y. M. C. A. is fitted up in the most modern style, and is well furnished with all the appliances of a first-class institution of the kind. A competent instructor in physical culture is one of the chief attractions. For five dollars a year students will be entitled, not only to all the privileges of the Gymnasium, but to the bath rooms, etc., of the Y. M. C. A. This is much cheaper and better than could be afforded under direction of the College.

THE BLACK PHILOSOPHICAL PRIZE.

To encourage a spirit of philosophical research among the members of the Senior Class, E. Black, Esq., of Monmouth, has authorized the President to draw upon him for the sum of twenty-five dollars annually, subject to the following conditions:

First,—That fifteen dollars be awarded the Senior in the Classical Department who shall write the best philosophical thesis.

Second,—That ten dollars be awarded the student of the same class who shall write the second best.

Third,—That the subject be assigned by the Philosophical Professor, and the decision given by some competent judge whom he shall name.

Fourth,—That none shall compete for the Black prize who have not made an average recitation grade of 8.5 during the first three months of the year in the subject of philosophy.

SOCIETY PRIZE CONTESTS.

The Eccritean Society has three annual contests among its own members, viz.: A Declamation contest, prize $5.00; an Essay contest, prize $5.00; and an Oration Contest, called the McKelvey Oration contest, prizes $10.00 and $5.00.

The Philadelphian Society has two annual contests among its members, viz.; A Declamation contest, prizes $5.00 and $3.00; and an Oration contest, called the Elliott-Cleland Oration contest, prizes $10.00 and $5.00.

The Aletheorian and Amateur des Belles Lettres, the ladies' societies, have similar contests.

The Philo-Eccritean contest on the last evening of the first term, and the A. B. L.-Aletheorian on the last evening of the second term. Each of these contests embraces ten points: Declamation, 1; Essay, 2; Oration, 3; Debate, 4. The interest centering in these contests makes them the literary events of the year.

STUDENTS' LECTURE COURSE.

Under the auspices of the Philadelphian and Eccritean Literary Societies the following lectures and entertainments have been given in the College Chapel within this college year: Mrs. Mary L. Scott-Siddons, "Select Readings"; "The Emerson Boston Stars"; "The Harvard Quartette"; Ex-Gov. Will Cumback, "The Model Husband"; Rev. Robert McIntyre, "Wyandotte Cave"; "The Royal Hand Bell Ringers" of London, England; Rev. Robert Nourse, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

These entertainments have been well patronized and have furnished the students an opportunity, at trifling outlay, of hearing representative American and English platform orators.

A similar course will be given the coming year.

GOVERNMENT.

It is the aim of the Faculty to secure good order and diligence in study by force of moral and religious principles, rather than by direct exercise of authority. Those who persist in neglecting their studies, or in pursuing disorderly courses, or in exerting an evil influence, will not be permitted to remain in college.

EXPENSES.

First Year English and Junior Preparatory —

First Term.....	$10 00
Second and Third Terms, each.....	7 00
Incidental Expenses, per annum, ($0 cents per month)....	8 00

All Other Classes—

First Term.....	$12 00
Second and Third Terms, each.....	9 00
Matriculation Fee, on entering Collegiate Department ...	5 00
Incidental Expenses per annum, ($1 per month).....	10 00
For Chemicals, to be paid by students in Chemistry, per term.....	2 00

The incidental fee is intended to meet the expenses of the College not included in the salaries of the Professors and Instructors.

Instruction in Penmanship is given in the Preparatory and in the English Course without extra charge.

There is no extra charge for Modern Languages.

College Statutes, Chapter II., Sec. 5: Every person, before he is admitted to the privileges of the college, shall obtain from the Treasurer a receipt by which it shall appear that he has complied with the ordinance of the Senate regarding fees and expenses, and if any officer admit to his recitation a student who has not paid up his College bills, such officer shall be held responsible for such bills.

Boarding in private families, including lodging and fuel, has, during the past year, ranged from $3.50 to $4.00 per week. Many students board themselves at a cost of $2.80 per week.

To those who club, pay the lowest rates, and the highest rates in private families, the cost per annum is as follows:

For board, fuel, room and light....	$109 20	to	$136 50	to	$156 00
For tuition and incidentals.....	40 00	to	40 00	to	40 00
For washing, estimated from.....	12 00	to	15 00	to	20 00
For text-books.....	8 00	to	12 00	to	15 00

Total..... $169 20 $203 50 $231 00

In the Junior Preparatory and in the first year English, the cost is $8.00 per annum less for tuition and incidentals than in the College. When a student becomes a member of a Literary society, he pays an initiation fee of $5.00, and when he enters the Freshman class, a matriculation fee of $5.00. Books will average about $11.00 per annum, except during Junior and Senior years when the cost becomes greater.

The cost of clothing and traveling, and the private incidental expenses of a student are not included. They will depend largely upon the habits of the student. Clothing need cost but little, if anything, more in College than out.

EXAMINATIONS.

Each class is examined in each book or subject when completed. These examinations may be either oral or in writing, and it is intended that they shall be thorough and complete.

SESSIONS AND VACATIONS.

The present college year will close on Commencement Day—Thursday, June 12. The first session of the Thirty-fourth College year will open on Wednesday, September 3d, and close on Thursday, December 18th. The second session will open on Tuesday, January 6, and close on Thursday, March 27th. The third session will open on Tuesday, April 7th, and close on Thursday, June 11th. The summer vacation will continue about two months, the winter about two weeks, and the spring about one week.

Monmouth contains about six thousand inhabitants, and is situated at the junction of the Main Line and the St. Louis Division of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, and also of the Central Iowa and Santa Fe. It contains flourishing churches of various Evangelical denominations.

HONORS.

The following persons received the Honors of the Class of '89.

In the Classical Course—D. E. Smith, First Honor.

In the Scientific Course—Mary R. McMillan, First Honor.

Through the liberality of DR. WALLACE, the use of Two Tickets to the Warren County Library is given to the two students making the highest grade in the Junior Class—one in the Classical and the other in the Scientific Course. D. W. McQuiston and Jennie Todd have been the recipients of the above during the year.

The Class of '85 has left with the Faculty a ticket to the Warren County Library, as its memorial, the use of which during the Junior year, is to be given to the student making the highest grade in the Sophomore class. T. H. Hanna has been the recipient of this ticket during the year.

In the Black Philosophical Prize Contest, D. E. Smith took first prize and J. H. Tate second.

At the Annual Commencement held June 20, 1889, the following degrees were conferred:

HISTORY OF THE ALETHEORIAN SOCIETY

In the fall of 1862, some of the girls entering the Sub-Junior class of the Scientific Course asked permission of the Faculty to meet for literary practice. Consent was given, but the Faculty urged the founding of a permanent society, claiming that the competition thus afforded would only give new life to A. B. L. Thus being urged on and encouraged, the work was finally undertaken, and the society founded in 1862. Sarah Struthers (Wallace) was its founder. The charter members were Mary Joss (Babcock), Mattie Wright (Findley), Josie Parry (Young), Lizzie Parry (Brown), Emma Moore (Dunlap), Salina Graham (McCutcheon), Mary Beckwith and M. E. Alexander. Dr. Young, now of Allegheny Theological Seminary, then professor of Greek and Hebrew, suggested the name "ALETHEORIAN." Prof. Wilson gave them their motto,— "Aude Sapere."

From time to time additions were made to Society. Though as yet there was but a small membership, they were keenly alive to their interests, conscientious in regard to faithful performance, persistent in securing for themselves a furnished room. The only furniture they began with was a table; then after a few years they purchased a Brussels carpet costing $240; next a library; finally the red plush officers' chairs. But all that these girls owned they had earned. In order to start a library, one lady secured, by unaided effort, $25 and a large number of books. The Society was strict in imposing fines in those days. "Why," said an old Alumna, "they fined me if I even whispered." But their decorum and faithfulness was such that a fine was of rare occurrence.

There were a number of entertainments given for the benefit of the library fund. Political dialogues, declamations, tableaux and charades drew forth large audiences and brought money into the treasury. They also gave suppers, and at one of them realized enough to pay all their indebtedness but $60. For some reason, perhaps only known to themselves, the Faculty stopped this income by forbidding any more entertainments of this character.

The girls, some two years after organization, gave an exhibition in the Chapel. Very soon afterward they were challenged by the A. B. L. Society to contest; they accepted; there were no judges, the names of contestants were kept secret. All performances were delivered from books or Ms. This was held in the old First church. The next year the Aletheorians would not contest without judges, and in lieu thereof gave an exhibition in Claycomb's Hall. The performers dressed in buff wool delaine. The performances consisted of essays, select readings and a paper. The exhibition given in '67 was memorable, because of its being the first of many exercises given by students in Union Hall. Some of those who were on performance were Misses Emma Brownlee, Joss, McCarroll, Sadie Graham, and Beckwith. These were dressed in pink and were trained by Prof. Hamill, now an elocutionist of Chicago. One lady rendered the "Bells," and the other declaimer the "Maniac." This was the last of the pink or cream exhibitions, for next year they had a contest and judges too.

Nevertheless, this Society which began with nine members has proved a healthy, vigorous organization. Though Aletheorian has encountered billows in the past, may we not prophecy a smooth sea in the future.

PART SECOND.

An old record book shows the Alethorian Society to have been prospering in the early seventies.

During the first years of the College, Dr. Wallace had insisted that the girls should read, not speak, at College Exhibitions. The order of exercises in the old record book shows a lingering prejudice of the same sort. Orations were, to be sure, provided for, but one might read or speak a selection as she chose, and last on the program came "debate or paper."

At this time the Alethorian Society, as also the A. B. L., belonged to the Oratorical Association, from which they have since withdrawn. There was besides a "Quaternion lecture association" made up of representatives from the four literary societies of the College, under the auspices of which lectures and concerts were given.

In '79 and '80 the Society was smaller than in previous years. The same names often appeared on each evening's program, which was not suffered to fall below the old standard. The business, too, was conducted with all solemnity. Most of the girls were, to begin with, totally ignorant of parliamentary law, but they studied "Roberts' Rules of Order" with the greatest diligence. A zealous member, bent upon perfecting herself by practice, as well as study, made one evening memorable by an appeal from the President's decision—a thing hitherto unheard of. As a result of all this, the business was conducted in an orderly way that would put most Societies of older women to shame.

The decorous minutes of the meetings ignore, for the most part, the little squabbles and funny occurrences, which greatly added to the interest. One light-minded secretary does add to her account of the evening's doings: "It was not very comfortable, as the stovepipes fell down on the janitor's wife's head and we couldn't get it up."

On the first evening of every term the exercises consisted of extemporaneous speeches by all members, on subjects drawn at random. Once a month the doors were open to visitors. The Society had then no piano, but often there were songs to a guitar accompaniment.

In '81 the hall was papered and re-carpeted. An informal reunion of old members was held during commencement week. A gift of money made the Society by those present added a number of volumes to the library. In '82 prize oration and declamation contests were instituted. The first was a small affair, planned for the Society hall, but the large number of visitors made it necessary to adjourn to the Chapel. It was this year that the girl's Society was first represented in the College papers. In '82 the Aletheorian Society nearly doubled its membership.

AMY ROGERS, '82.

Years of persevering earnest work, of triumph and defeat; of success and failure; of many vicissitudes for our loved Society; but withal years of steady growth and widening influence—pleasant to recall.

How has Aletheorian changed with the years? What has she done? What is her standing?

In lofty aim, in noble purpose, in principle she changed not. When we visit her or hear of her, she has always the same straightforward, honest, resolute mien; her ideas are fixed and we are glad; for this makes us feel at home with her.

The changes have been immaterial things. The stove of '82 has given place to radiators. The old much worn carpet has been replaced by a neat figured new one; the walls are much improved by a pretty paper, some new pictures and our beautiful "Banner of Blue;" dainty bric-a-brac adds its charm. In one corner we still find a reminder of the past—the old bookcase—containing a goodly number of choice books, and on the platform those same pretty officers' chairs—goal of our ambition, pride of our hearts, seats of honor, influence, power. Most welcome of all innovations is the fine upright piano in the southeast corner—long wished for, much worked for, ours at last. Now sweet music adds its charm to every evening's program. The girls we see now in the "Old Hall" are not the ones we used to see, and yet they do not seem strange to us; for are they not Aletheorian Sisters? Bright, earnest, faithful, hopeful of the future, eager to see the "true blue" conspicuously plenty among the new girls, who will make "splendid workers," and disposed to make the most of opportunities and circumstances in persuading said girls to join "Our Society." We recall old scenes in the ladies' waiting room Oh! for a "kintograph!" to reproduce those "dissolving views."

Well, each year new girls take up the work, go through the literary drill, and out into the world to battle for the right, and others come and fill the ranks—ever moving on, yet always the same.

What has Aletheorian done? Kept on the even tenor of her way, rejoicing in prosperity, considering in adversity. Has charmed the hearer with her eloquence, urged on her own members, and stimulated them to extra exertions by her prize contests in Oration, Essay and Declamation. She has contested loyally for the "ten points" in the Spring Contests with her A. B. L. sisters. In '85 had a quarrel with A. B. L. about the grading of the contest performances on original thought and style of composition, before the night of contest. They could not see things in the same light, so agreed to disagree, until '89, when they made up and renewed the friendly contests, this time with a revised and much improved platform, and Aletheorian came off victorious. She has made her influence felt in all the walks of life; has trained many noble women to use with skill the pen and tongue.

In '87 she celebrated her Quarter-Centennial. We were all invited back to rejoice with her, and what a royal time we had! So many of the "old girls" were there; some of our charter members even; and how interested we all were in Mrs. H. F. Wallace's history of our Society. Did not it seem grander than ever that day? "What is so rare as a day in June," provided that day be Aletheorian's Quarter-Centennial?

Not at all vapory,
Is her "Aude Sapere."

Aletheorian means each girl sent out by her to "dare to be wise" for herself, and fill her own proper place in life,—whether as teacher, housekeeper, or any other calling she may choose. True, she may not choose the ministry, but she may be a minister's wife; and though she may not preach, she may practice what he preaches.

Aletheorian stands today prosperous, free of debt, self-reliant, one of "Alma Mater's" most efficient helpers in the great work of educating heart and head.

Yes, "That light we see is burning in our Hall,
How far that little candle throws its beams."

MARGARET OLIVER, '85.

HISTORY OF THE A. B. L. SOCIETY.

In the month of October in the year 1857, a group of young ladies assembled in one of the recitation rooms of the old building—then new and known as Monmouth College—and organized its first Ladies' Literary Society. It was done with many misgivings, for in that day any evidence of being "strong-minded" was to be deplored in woman. However, as the young ladies were required to take part in the public exercises of the College, (but in every case with a manuscript or book in hand as became modesty,) and as the gentlemen of the College had already organized a similar society for their training in literature—and as the ladies were ambitious to equal them in this regard as in every other—therefore was the important step taken and the Society born. It was chartered "Philomathean" and bore that name for a few weeks only, when it was decided that as at that time none of the lady students were studying either Greek or Latin, and many had begun the study of French, it would be more appropriate to give our Society a French name rather than one derived from the "dead" language, consequently the name was changed to "AMATEURS DES BELLES LETTRES," and for a motto "Droit et Avant" was chosen—the name and motto which the Society has borne until the present time, a period of almost 23 years. As the name was rather long for convenience, and somewhat difficult to pronounce by the uninitiated, by common consent and for common use the initials only were taken, and it has ever since been spoken of as the A. B. L. Society of Monmouth College.

During its struggle for existence, and after its members had industriously and perseveringly collected a few books—the nucleus of what they fondly hoped in time would be a fine library, they had the misfortune to lose these books together with the Society Records in the burning of the Philadelphian library, (on whose shelves the A. B. L.'s books were, and by the courtesy of whom they were occupying the same hall.)

When the old College building was completed it was found that halls had been provided for only two literary Societies. These the gentlemen students appropriated, dividing their original Society and forming the present Eccritean and Philadelphian Societies, taking each a hall and leaving the young ladies, with their infant Society, out in the cold. This was felt by them at the time as an act of injustice, but they made no public protest. They possessed their souls in patience until the new building was projected, when they surprised the building committee by appearing before them and the Faculty, claiming their rights to a hall, and stating if one was not furnished them they would no longer take part in the public exercises of the College; that according to the constitution of the college, ladies were to be admitted on equal terms and footing with the gentlemen, and were entitled to equal privileges. Astonished at their boldness in thus declaring their rights, but convinced of the justness of their claims, the matter was taken into consideration, and the hall at present used by the Society was given them.

MRS. R. W. McCCLAUGHRY.

Huntingdon, Pa.

FROM '64 to '69.

In the spring of 1864 I joined the A. B. L. Society, and from that time until I graduated in 1869 I was intimately connected with it. Soon after I joined we had a supper at the college, which was quite largely attended, and from which we made enough money, added to what was already in the treasury, to buy a new Brussels carpet to replace the old one on the floor. That, with some plain chairs and a very plain table, made up the furniture of the room. We thought it very nice. During the winter of 1865 we had another entertainment, and from the proceeds we bought a bookcase; but we had no books to put in it, about a half-dozen volumes comprising our whole library. We then gave an entertainment at a hall down town, consisting of recitations, charades, tableaux, etc., the proceeds from which enabled us to procure books for the empty shelves.

During that year we held our first contest with the Aletheorian Society. The joint committees of the two societies held various meetings to arrange the preliminaries. The principal point of controversy was the all-important question as to whether or not we should have judges. Our Society opposed this plan and the Aletheorian Society advocated it. The first contest was finally held without judges, much to our gratification. The next year, however, we adopted the plan of having judges at contest, and thenceforward retained it.

During the years from the spring of '64 to June of '69, the Society was well attended, the literary performances were good, and, as a rule, a spirit of love and harmony prevailed. Sometimes the girls quarreled, as girls will, but mostly "peace went with them, one and all." Many creditable "open meetings" were held, and some exhibitions beside the contests. In June '69 we had in the hall, in addition to the carpet and bookcase, new chairs, new tables, and handsome antique chairs for the executive officers, curtains at the windows, pictures on the walls, and good and beautiful books on the shelves.

The members of it loved the A. B. L. Society in those days, were glad to work for it, and were loyal to each other. Now, they look back to those times and are thankful for the help and training they received within its walls, and will always cherish tenderly its memory.

BELLE STEWART HAMMACK.

San Diego, Cal.

FROM '69 to '79.

In looking over the record of the A. B. L. Society for the years '69 to '79 inclusive, we are somewhat amazed at the wonderful things accomplished. Most of their meetings were marked by kind feelings, and good order usually prevailed; but sometimes a question would arise which occasioned a sharp discussion. At the next meeting, however, the hatchet was buried, and as the minutes record, "peace reigned supreme." In those early days, the girls generally met "pursuant to adjournment" or "at the call of the President," when "the voices of the social members were hushed to silence," but this was varied once by "meeting previous to adjournment." On another occasion they took time by the forelock and early in February, when the "oxygen and carbon in the stove failed to unite sufficiently to cause combustion, adjourned to the Chapel, where they decided to hold a strawberry festival sometime before commencement." One September afternoon the officers elect took their "respectful places," and an unfortunate girl was criticized because she "failed to preserve a little levity." Open meetings were ordered to begin at "exactly" $7\frac{1}{2}$ o'clock, and fines were imposed so frequently that, had all been collected and turned over to the College, there had been little need for the services of a financial agent, and no excuse for charging tuition. But at the next meeting the fines were often forgiven, and "peace again reigned supreme." A committee was once appointed to "arrange the members into a program," but its success is not recorded. Preceding the year '71, the curious custom prevailed of "requiring Seniors to give their photographs to Society before securing diplomas." It is interesting to note the wide range of the Society's needs during these years. The girls were always liberal though economical. At the beginning of the '70's we find members offering to care for the lamps, and attend to the cleaning of the hall themselves, yet discussing the merits of books to be purchased. Then we read of the hall being lighted by gas, of pictures, door plate, bronze door-knobs, books, new chairs and tables, society pins and colors, black and gold, adopted, and finally a piano added to their possessions. During these years, they were represented on the Courier Staff, and Quaternion Association, donating the proceeds of the latter for the year '74-'75 to procure apparatus for the College, were active and successful in the home contest, and were once represented in the Inter-Collegiate by Miss Fannie Henderson, who secured second rank. In any and every phase A. B. L. Society stands second to none.

MRS. IDA CAREY BURNS.

Monmouth, Ill.

FROM 1879 TO 1890.

Although the history of a college literary society should be and is of interest to all who have a regard for the advancement of intellectual culture, still, with those who have been associated with such an organization as active members, and afterward as alumnae, this interest is developed in its highest degree. 'Tis for these that the history of A. B. L. Society is more especially written. This does not differ so widely from all similar organizations, but it will be a pleasure to live over again in memory the scenes enacted in the old familiar hall during the past ten years.

For nearly thirty-three years the meetings of A. B. L. Society have been held in the same hall that it first occupied when the College building was completed. In 1880 this Society began giving public entertainments in the College Chapel for the purpose of financial aid. The proceeds of the first one were devoted to repairing the hall. This first attempt was so successful that the Society has continued to give an entertainment consisting of music or tableaux once or twice during each year.

Those who graduated prior to the year '85 will remember how they used to wish for music in connection with the literary program of each Friday afternoon. But until this year nothing definite was decided upon. At this time A. B. L. and Eccritean societies jointly rented a piano, to be used by the former at the afternoon and the latter at the evening session of society. This proved such an advantage to A. B. L. that the following year the members of Society decided to purchase a piano for their own property. During the fall of '85 a disagreement arose between the A. B. L. and Aletheorian societies in regard to the contest platform. Failing to settle the existing differences in a manner satisfactory to both societies, no contest was held that year nor during the four succeeding years. The contest held in March, '85, closed one period of success for A. B. L. The result of this and former contests enabled it to stand 28 points ahead, as regards contest between the two ladies' societies. This is verified by the contest record published in 1880.

During the fall of '87 the Society met with quite a loss in the destruction of its diploma plate, which was burned together with the building occupied by the Stowbridge Lithographing Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio. This firm had in its possession the diploma plates of the four literary societies, each of which sustained the same loss.

When A. B. L. Society was founded, the French language was studied in College, and as the name of the Society, "Amateurs des Belles Lettres," was written in French, it was thought best that the diplomas from this Society also be written in that language. But for several years past this branch of study had not been comprised in the College curriculum, and since that time these diplomas had ceased to be intelligible to those receiving them. Since the burning of the old plate necessitated the expense of a new one, it was thought practicable that this new one be written in the English language, and I venture to assert that the A. B. L. girls of the class of '88 were the first who for several years preceding were able to read understandingly the writing on their Society's diplomas.

Contest not as yet having been renewed between the two ladies' Societies, in March '88 a $40.00 prize contest was held between eight A. B. L. girls, the performances corresponding to those on regular A. B. L. and Aletheorian contest, and the prize to be apportioned according to the number of points which each production counts. Regular contest between the Societies was renewed this year, a new platform having been adopted.

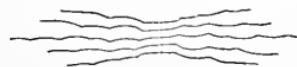

In June 1889, the Society hall was entirely refurnished at quite an expense, but when completed, its elegant appearance more than justified the outlay of money.

At the reunion of Alumnae, held in the hall commencement week of the same year, few would have felt at home in the old hall but for the dear familiar faces that were gathered there. No matter in what direction our paths may lead, still the heart of every loyal A. B. L. will always rejoice in her prosperity.

And in the future as in the past, may her motto ever be "Right and Onward."

HISTORY OF PHILADELPHIAN SOCIETY.

A history of the Philadelphian Society, gathered partly from records and partly from memory, can give but a skeleton outline of its real life and work. The loving hearts and kindly memories of those who have known it best will round out the skeleton sketch and make it seem a thing of life. To the uninitiated it will doubtless seem a skeleton still; but so be it. As an ungainly skeleton is not without its use in anatomy, so a mere outline of so important an educational factor as the Philadelphian Society of Monmouth College cannot be wholly uninteresting.

The society of which the Philadelphian is one of the honored successors was closely identified with the early history of Monmouth College. Monmouth College was organized in the basement of the First Presbyterian church of Monmouth, Ill., in September, 1856. The "Erodelphian Literary Society" was formed during the same month. Late in October following, the College took possession of what was then the new College building, afterwards used as an academy, later occupied as a boarding house by college students, and now for manufacturing purposes. The minutes of "Erodelphian Society" show that at a meeting on Nov. 14, 1856, W. S. McClanahan was president, A. P. Jamieson secretary. At this meeting a committee was appointed to arrange for fitting up the Erodelphian hall in the new College building.

We gather from the "tradition of the elders" that as part of its work, this committee induced the ladies of Monmouth to give a supper for the benefit of the Society, from which was realized $120. This was at the close of the winter term, when the College closed for the usual holiday vacation.

When the Society met again, in 1857, President D. A. Wallace was at the meeting, and calling attention to its vigorous and healthy growth and the advantages of generous and friendly rivalry, urged upon the members the formation of two societies from the material then forming one. After much discussion this plan was adopted at a meeting on January 9th, 1857, and two brothers, Jas. R. Harris and Daniel Harris, were appointed a committee to complete the arrangements. By each of the committee choosing alternately the Society was divided into two bands. Those with Daniel Harris as their leader took possession of the south room of the College building and organized the "Eccritean" society, while Jas. R. Harris (now affectionately styled "Father" Harris by later members of the Society) and his followers gathered in the north room as the PHILADELPHIAN SOCIETY. The money was divided equally between the two societies. W. S. McClanahan was the first President and George Norcross the first Secretary. It is part of the legendary history of those early days that the Philadelphian Society spent their share of the money for books which formed the nucleus of the present excellent library, while the Eccritean invested in excellent and, at that time, showy furniture. Some enthusiastic Philos have claimed that this early investment was but an indication of the different character of the two societies in the future. The impartial historian must admit that solid intellectual training and polished exterior have been well developed in both.

About this time a ladies' literary society was formed in the College, and as they were without a hall each of the two societies tendered its hall to the ladies, with a strong desire by each that it should be accepted. This was likely the first contest between the societies and resulted in favor of the Eccritean. Some of the Philos were ungallant enough to hint that the ladies were captivated by the furniture, especially a fancy table cover, rather than the valuable library which they would have found with the Philos. If this were a history of individuals rather than a Society there could be given a history of many "proposals" from Philos more favorably received.

The first public exhibition in which the Society took part was on March 26, 1857. The older members have a vivid recollection of the struggles and trials of those early days, while they sought to put the Society on a firm footing and make of it an institution to which in future years they could point with honest pride. Performances in Society are now limited to a certain number of minutes, but in early history this was not the case. The manner by which a change was effected but displays the characteristic of many earnest men for mingling jolly humor with solid work. The motion had been made to limit the time of performances, but it was lost. Three members prepared essays for the next meeting, and when one read for three-quarters of an hour, another for an hour, and a third after reading down one side of several sheets of legal cap made into one continuous sheet, and back on the opposite side, occupying one hour and a half in so doing, the members were quite ready to limit the time of performances.

The College and the Society were but fairly established when many of its members were called upon to take part in the war for the preservation of the Union, and nobly did the members of Philo rally to the support of the "Star Spangled Banner." It is a matter of tradition that the first who enlisted from Monmouth College was a Philo, and the writer was a classmate of the last soldier who graduated from the College, and who was also a Philo. During the years succeeding the war, many whose course had been interrupted or had not commenced their studies on account of the war, were connected with the College. A great many, I think a majority of these joined the Philadelphian Society. This help from mature minds gave to the Society an earnestness and solidity pre-eminent above its fellows,—a characteristic which it long retained. It has also been fortunate in securing members of pluck and perseverance, so that while other societies have equalled it in securing members, Philo surpassed in retaining them. This was so marked at one point in its history that Philo had more members than any other two societies in College.

The life and work of Philo is written in the hearts and memories of its members in a way it has not been, perhaps never can be, written on paper. There are memories of lengthy discussions and grave settlement of questions that are still puzzling the heads of statesmen and philosophers; there are visions of Society tax and dues, and special assessments for door-plate, carpet, library or chandelier; there are recollections of heart-burnings and envy over contests, offices and exhibitions, and there are wounds not yet, possibly never will be, entirely healed. There is the memory of the time when each member was expected to perform at each weekly meeting; then, as numbers increased, for three meetings out of four; again, at every second, and now I believe at every third meeting. There are sad and tender memories of those who by disease or accident, or rebel bullet have passed to another world.

As the good ship has passed upon its course, many of its crew have sunk beneath the wave, but it is still manned by noble men, and many of those who for a time guided her course are doing noble work, and gaining a name for which Philo need never blush. Memory lovingly cherishes the labors of the past, and to Philadelphians, bearing on their banner "Vincit Qui se Vincit," the future may confidently be entrusted.

History of Eccritean Society.

The Eccritean was the second Society organized in Monmouth College, but its beginning is so intimately connected with the first Society, that to give a history of the Eccritean, it is necessary to refer to some things that precede its organization.

The second week of the first College session, a literary Society, named "The Erodelphian" was organized with about twenty members. This number increased to thirty-four, the first College session. President Wallace advised this Society to divide, and form two societies which would be generous rivals, and stimulate each other to higher efforts. This proposition received little favor at first. The Society was planning to have a supper at the close of the session to raise money to furnish The Erodelphian hall. But the building committee made some changes in the arrangement of the rooms on the second floor, and two rooms were provided to be used for Society halls, and the supper given at the close of the session netted $120.00; so at the beginning of the second session the members of the Society felt encouraged to accept the President's advice.

On Friday evening, January 9th, 1857, The Erodelphian Society met in the recitation room on the north side of the hall, on the first floor, and resolved to proceed at once to divide the Society and the funds now on hands.

The plan adopted for division was to elect a member by ballot who should choose out members for the new Society, and another to retain members in The Erodelphian. Many personal friendships had been formed, and each one seemed loth to be separated from his fellows in society work. Daniel Harris, who had been first President of The Erodelphian, was chosen on first ballot to lead out the new Society, and his brother James R. was chosen on a second ballot to retain members. These two retired to an adjoining room, with the roll of members, and by alternate choice from it divided the Society as equitably as they could. When the work was complete they made their report. The roll for the new Society was: A. T. Andrews, W. H. Blair, J. H. Brown, J. W. Crawford, Robt. M. Dihel, Henry Ewing, R. S. Finley, John Gowdy, Daniel Harris, A. P. Jamison, M. H. Jamison, R. W. McClaughry, J. F. Mitchell, J. A. Porter, Hugh Ramsey, Henry Scott and

A. B. Struthers. This roll was called and these members at once retired to the recitation room on the south side of the hall, and proceeded to organize the new Society. Recognizing the constitution of the old Society as the law pro tem, they elected officers under it. Daniel Harris was chosen President, R. W. McClaughry Secretary and R. M. Dihel Treasurer, and a committee was appointed to prepare a constitution. The choice of a name was deferred till the new constitution should be adopted. At the second meeting R. W. McClaughry resigned his office and returned to the Erodelphian Society, and A. P. Jamison was appointed to fill the vacancy. A committee was appointed at this meeting to furnish the Society hall. The third week the committee having obtained a few articles of furniture, began to occupy their unpapered hall. The cushioned settees with which the Society had voted to seat the hall, could not then be obtained in Monmouth, and the committee had them made to order in Chicago, and did not receive them till the third session. In the mean time a few plain benches were placed in the hall, and a few chairs were borrowed from the recitation rooms for each meeting. At a called meeting February 19th, a constitution and by-laws were adopted, leaving the name blank, though several names were proposed. On one of these names the vote was a tie, and the President was asked to decide. He rose and said: "Fellow members, we wish the name that we adopt to be the choice of more than half of our number. It should be a name that we can all accept unanimously, if possible, and one that we will all feel proud to wear." At the last meeting in February the name Eccritean was chosen, and became the talismanic word for effort, growth, and improvement. The motto "Sic iter ad astra," was not adopted until the second year.

Near the close of the first year the Eccritean Society challenged the old Society, then recently named Philadelphian, to contest. The arrangements were made satisfactorily, and the first contest was held in the College Chapel at the close of the first session of the second year. The First U. P. church, where many contests were held afterward, was not built until the summer following first contest (1858). When the Ladies' A. B. L. Society was organized, the Eccriteans gallantly offered that society the free use of their hall. This offer was accepted, and the two societies for some time shared the same hall and library. The nucleus of this library was the donation in 1857 of three volumes by Rev. J. C. Porter, one of the honored founders of Monmouth College. To obtain funds for the purchase of suitable books for their library, the Eccritean and A. B. L. Societies held an exhibition in Langdon's Hall,—a building on the east side of the square which perished in the great fire of 1871. The amount of money raised at this exhibition is forgotten, but it is remembered that this was the occasion of the first appearance of the bogus programs at public society meetings in Mon-
